A DICTIONARY
OF THE
CHINOOK JARGON, OR TRADE LANGUAGE OF OREGON.
PREPARED FOR THE SMITHSONIAN INSTITUTION.
BY GEORGE GIBBS.
In 1855, the Smithsonian Institution published a Vocabulary of the Jargon or Trade Language of Oregon, from a manuscript furnished by Dr. B. Rush Mitchell, and edited by Prof. W. W. Turner. This was necessarily very imperfect, and in fact was printed mainly with the view of eliciting additions and corrections, which might be used to prepare a more perfect account of this very remarkable mixture of language. The present work, which is much more complete, has been prepared by George Gibbs, Esq., from materials collected by himself during a residence of twelve years on the northwest coast of North America.

PREFACE.

Some years ago the Smithsonian Institution printed a small vocabulary of the Chinook Jargon, furnished by Dr. B. R. Mitchell, of the U. S. Navy, and prepared, as I afterwards learned, by Mr. Lionnet, a Catholic priest, for his own use while studying the language at Chinook Point. It was submitted by the Institution, for revision and preparation for the press, to the late Professor W. W. Turner. Although it received the critical examination of that distinguished philologist, and was of use in directing attention to the language, it was deficient in the number of words in use, contained many which did not properly belong to the Jargon, and did not give the sources from which the words were derived.

Mr. Hale had previously given a vocabulary and account of this Jargon in his "Ethnography of the United States Exploring Expedition," which was noticed by Mr. Gallatin in the Transactions of the American Ethnological Society, vol. ii. He, however, fell into some errors in his derivation of the words, chiefly from ignoring the Chinalis element of the Jargon, and the number of words given by him amounted only to about two hundred and fifty.

A copy of Mr. Lionnet's vocabulary having been sent to me, with a request to make such corrections as it might require, I concluded not merely to collate the words contained in this and other printed and manuscript vocabularies, but to ascertain, so far as possible, the languages which had contributed to it, with the original Indian words. This had become the more important, as its extended use by different tribes had led to ethnological errors in the classing together of essentially distinct families. Dr. Scouler, whose vocabularies were among the earliest bases of comparison of the languages of the northwest coast, assumed a number of words, which he found indiscriminately employed by the Nootkans of Vancouver Island, the Chinooks of the Columbia, and the intermediate tribes, to belong alike to their several languages, and exhibit analogies between them accordingly.* On this idea, among other points of fancied resemblance, he founded his family of Nootka-Columbians,—one which has been adopted by Drs. Pritchard and Latham, and has caused very great misconception. Not only are those languages entirely distinct, but the Nootkans differ greatly in physical and mental characteristics from the latter. The analogies between the Chinook and the other native contributors to the Jargon are given hereafter.

The origin of this Jargon, a conventional language similar to the Lingua Franca of the Mediterranean, the Negro-English-Dutch of Surinam, the Pigeon English of China, and several other mixed tongues, dates back to the fur droggers of the last century. Those mariners whose enterprise in the fifteen years preceding 1800, explored the intricacies of the northwest coast of America, picked up at their general rendezvous, Nootka Sound, various native words useful in barter, and thence transplanted them, with additions from the English, to the shores of Oregon. Even before their day, the coasting trade and warlike expeditions of the northern tribes, themselves a seafaring race, had opened up a partial understanding of each other's speech; for when, in 1792, Vancouver's officers visited Gray's Harbor, they found that the natives, though speaking a different language, understood many words of the Nootka.

On the arrival of Lewis and Clarke at the mouth of the Columbia, in 1806, the new language, from the sentences given by them, had evidently attained some form. It was with the arrival of Astor's party, however, that the Jargon received its principal impulse. Many more words of English were then brought in, and for the first time the French, or rather the Canadian and Missouri patois of the French, was introduced. The principal seat of the company being at Astoria, not only a large addition of Chinook words was made, but a considerable number was taken from the Chiallis, who immediately bordered that tribe on the north,—each owning a portion of Shoalwater Bay. The words adopted from the several languages were, naturally enough, those most easily uttered by all, except, of course, that objects new to the natives found their names in French or English, and such modifications were made in pronunciation as suited tongues accustomed to different sounds. Thus the gutturals of the Indians were softened or dropped; and the $f$ and $r$ of the English and French, to them unprounounceable, were modified into $p$ and $l$. Grammatical forms were reduced to their simplest expression, and variations in mood and tense conveyed only by adverbs or by the context. The language continued to receive additions, and assumed a more distinct and settled meaning, under the Northwest and Hudson's Bay companies, who succeeded Astor's party, as well as through the American settlers in Oregon. Its advantage was soon perceived by the Indians, and the Jargon became to some extent a means of communication between natives of different speech, as well as between them and the whites. It was even used as such between Americans and Canadians. It was at first most in vogue upon the lower Columbia and the Willamette, whence it spread to Puget Sound, and with the extension of trade, found its way far up the coast, as well as the Columbia and Fraser rivers; and there are now few tribes between the 42d and 57th parallels of latitude in which there are not to be found interpreters through its medium. Its prevalence and easy acquisition, while of vast convenience to traders and settlers, has tended greatly to hinder the acquirement of the original Indian languages; so much so, that except by a few missionaries and pioneers, hardly one of them is spoken or understood by white men in all Oregon and Washington Territory. Notwithstanding its apparent poverty in number of words, and the absence of grammatical forms, it possesses much more flexibility and power of expression than might be imagined, and really serves almost every purpose of ordinary intercourse.

The number of words constituting the Jargon proper has been variously stated. Many formerly employed have become in great measure obsolete, while others have been locally introduced. Thus, at the Dalles of the Columbia, various terms are common which would not be intelligible at Astoria or on Puget Sound. In making the following selection, I have included all those which, on reference to a number of vocabularies, I have found current at any of these places, rejecting, on the other hand, such as individuals, partially acquainted with the native languages, have employed for their own convenience. The total number falls a little short of five hundred words.

An analysis of their derivations gives the following result:

I had no opportunity of original investigation into the Nootka proper, but from the few words in different published vocabularies, and from some imperfect manuscript ones in my possession of the Tokwalt, Nittinat, and Makah dialects, have ascertained the number above given. Some of the unascertained words probably also belong to that language. Neither was I able to collate the Wasco or Kalapuya, but have assigned them on the opinion of others. The former, also called Cathlasco, the dialect of the Dalles Indians, is a corrupted form of the Walatla or Upper Chinook. With the Chihalis, Yakama, and Klikatat, and the Nisqually, I had abundant means of comparison.

The introduction of the Cree and Chippeway words is of course due to the Canadians. None have been derived from the Spanish, as their intercourse with the Nootka and Makah Indians was too short to leave an impression. Spanish words, especially those relating to horses or mules and their equipments, have of late come into general use in Oregon, owing to intercourse with California, but they form no part of the Jargon. It might have been expected from the number of Sandwich Islanders introduced by the Hudson's Bay company, and long resident in the country, that the Kanaka element would have found its way into the language, but their utterance is so foreign to the Indian ear, that not a word has been adopted.

In the nouns derived from the French, the definite article le, la, has almost in every instance been incorporated into the word, and the same has in one or two instances been prefixed to nouns not of French origin. Besides the words created by direct onomatopoeia, there are quite a number which are really Indian, but have their origin in the similarity of sound to sense.

Dr. Soule's analogy between the Nootkan and "Columbian," or Chinook, was founded on the following words:
plenty, *aya, *haya.
water, tchaak, chuck.
man, *tchuckoop, tillitcham.
now, tlahowich, chahowiah.
what are you doing, *akoots-ka-*mamook, ekta-*mamlok.
what are you saying, *au-kaak-*wawa, ekta-*wawa.
let me see, *nannaiteal, *nannaite.
sun, *opeth, ootlach.
understand, *commatax, *commatax.

But of these, none marked with an asterisk belong to the Chinook or any of its dialects. The greater part of them are undoubtedly Nootkan, though there are errors in the spelling and, in some instances, in the meaning. Of the rest, the Nootkan tchaak and the Chinook t'itsuk alone presents an analogy. Klahowiah does not mean "now," nor do I believe it is Nootkan, in any sense. It is, as explained in the dictionary, the Chinook salutation, "How do you." "Good-bye," and is supposed to be derived from the word for poor, miserable. Mischemas is a Nootkan word, meaning a common person. With the exception of Franchère, whose short vocabulary was published by Mr. Gallatin, and Mr. Hale, all the writers mentioned by Ludwig who have given specimens of the Chinook language, have presented it in its Jargon form, more or less mixed with the neighboring ones, and with corruptions of French and English words. Mr. Swan, among others, has been led into this error. The place of his residence, Shoalwater Bay, is common ground of the Chinook and Chimalis Indians, and the degraded remnants of the two tribes are closely intermarried, and use both languages almost indifferently.
Setting aside interjections, common in a more or less modified form to several adjoining tribes, twenty-one words of those given in this vocabulary present noticeable analogies between the Chinook and other native languages. They are as follows:

The Clatsop (Klátstop) is merely a dialect of the Chinook (Technúk); the Cowlitz (Kaulalitsk), Kwantlen, Chihalis (Tsíhélís), and Nisqually (N'skwalí), are several languages belonging to the Selish family. The Yakama and Klikatat are dialects of one of the PREFACE.

Sahaptin languages; and the Tokwalt (Tokwát), Nittinat, and Makah (Maka) quoted in the dictionary, are dialects of the Nootka (Nútka), of which the Hailtzuk or Belbella (variously spelled Haeeltzuk and Hailtsa) is probably the northern type. It thus appears that, with two or three exceptions, the analogies of the Chinook, as contained in this vocabulary, are to be sought in the immediately adjoining tongues, or those of languages belonging to the same families with them; that these analogies, with perhaps one or two exceptions, can by no means be considered radical, and that their correspondence, or rather adoption, is easily accounted for by neighborhood and habits of intermarriage. A much more remarkable coincidence is the fact that two words included in this Jargon,—one from the Nootkan, viz., Mawitch, a deer, venison; and the other Chinook, Mooluk, an elk,—are also to be found in the Kowilth, the language of Humboldt Bay, in California. As this bay was first discovered in the winter of 1849-50, the words could not have been introduced by the fur trappers.

With regard to the form into which this dictionary has been thrown, an explanation is necessary. The Jargon must in some degree be regarded as a written language, the orthography of which is English. In Mr. Hale’s vocabulary alone has one more scientific been attempted, and of several other printed, and numerous manuscript dictionaries in circulation, M. Lionnet’s alone, that I have met with, is according to the French. Although no fixed system of spelling exists among them, I have therefore deemed it best to preserve for the Jargon words that which most distinctly represents the common English pronunciation; while for the Indian derivations, I have adopted that recommended by the Smithsonian Institution in collecting Indian vocabularies, using the Italian sounds of the vowels, and representing the guttural of the German ich by kh. This seemed the more proper, as the work would thereby be rendered of practical use, independent of what philological value it may possess. It is worthy of mention that quite a number of the Jargon words have been adopted into ordinary conversation in Oregon, and threaten to become permanently incorporated as a local addition to the English.

Hy'-kwa, or Hy'-a-kwa, n. Nootka, Haihwa (i-whaw, Jewitt). The dentalium; the shell money or wampum of the Pacific coast. It is used in strings of a fathom long; shells of not more than forty to the fathom being of full size, and the value increasing in proportion to their length. The smaller sizes are called coop-coop (q. v.). These shells were formerly obtained by the Indians of the west coast of Vancouver Island, and passed in barter as low down as California, and eastward to the Blackfoot country.
I.

Ik-pooie, v. Chinook, Ikhpu. To shut. Ikpoie Ia pote, shut the door; mamook ikpoie, to surround; ikpoie kwillan, deaf.

Ik, or Icht, adj. Chinook, Ikht. One; once. Used also as the indefinite article. Ikt man, a man; ikt-ikt man, some one or other; here and there one; ikt nika klatawa kopa yakka house, I have been once to his house.

Ik'-tah, pron. Chinook, Ikta. What. Ikta okook, what is that? iktah mika tikegh, what do you want? iktah, well, what now?

Ik'-tah, n. From the foregoing. A thing; goods; merchandise; clothing. Ihyin tenas iktah, a great many trifles. The use of the same word for what and for things, has been noticed in some other languages of this coast.

Il'-la-hie, n. Chinook, Ilahhekh. The ground; the earth; dirt. Tipso illahie, prairie; saghalle illahie, mountains, or high land; heaven; hyin illahie kopa, dirty (literally, much dirt upon).

In'-a-ti, or Een-a-ti, prep., adv. Chinook, Inatai. Across; opposite to; on the other side of. Inati chuck, on the other side of the river; klatawa inati, to cross over.

Ip'-soot, v., a., v. n. Chinook, Alhupso. To hide one’s self, or any thing; to keep secret. Ipsoot klatawa, to steal off; ipsoot waun-waun, to whisper.

Is'-kum, v. Chinook, idem. To take; take hold of; hold; get. Iskum okook lope, hold on to that rope; mika na iskum? did you get it?

It'-jan, or It'h-lan. n. Chinook, Ithlana. A fathom; the length of the extended arms.

It'-jo-kum, n. Chinook, idem; Chihalis, Setloikum. The game of “hand,”—a common amusement. Mamook itloikum, to gamble.

Itl'-wil-lie, n. Chinook, Etilwill. The flesh; meat of any animal. Konaway nika itwillie sick, all my flesh is sore.

Its'-woot, or Its'-hoot, n. Chinook, Etshhut. A black bear. Itshoot paseesie, thick dark cloth or blankets.
 PART I. CHINOOK—ENGLISH.

K.

Kah’-kah, n. Chinook and’ Nisqually (by onoma), SKAKA. A crow.

Káh kwa, adv. Nootka; Tokwah, ACHKO. Like; similar to; equal with; as. Kahkwa nika tumunum, so I think (literally, such [is] my heart); kalikwa hyas nika, as large as I; kalikwa spose, as if; kloshe kalikwa, that is right; good so.

Káp-ho, n. Chinook, idem. An elder brother, sister, or cousin.

Kal-a-kwá-thie, n. Chinook, Kalakwati; Clatsop, Kl’whelatl. The inner bark of the cedar (thuja); the petticoat, or skirt, formerly worn by women, and often made of strands of bark. Kalakwatie stick, the cedar-tree.

Kal-lá-tan, n. Chinook, Tklaitan. An arrow; shot; a bullet. Kalitan le sac, a quiver; a shot-pouch.

Kam-ass, or Lá-kam ass, n. Nootka. The Scilla esculenta,—a bulbous root used for food by the Indians. Jewitt gives Chamass as the Nootka for fruit, also for sweet, or pleasant to the taste.

Ka-mo’-suk, n. Chinook, idem. Beads. Tyee kamosuk (chiet beads), the large blue glass beads.

Moon, n. English, idem. The moon. Ikt moon, a month; sick moon, the wane or old moon.

Moos'-moos, n. Klikatat, Músms; Chinook, Mutsms. Buffalo, horned cattle. The word, slightly varied, is common to several languages. Mr. Anderson derives it from the Cree word moostos, a buffalo, and supposes it to have been imported by the Canadians; but Father Pandosy makes musms Yakama.
Moo'sum. v., n. Chihalis, Músam. To sleep; sleep. Tikegh moosum, or olo moo-sum, to be sleepy (literally, to want, or be hungry for sleep); nika hyas moo-sum, I slept very sound.

Mów-itsh, or Mah'witsh. n. Nootka, Muitish (Hale); Nittinat, Morrisu, a deer; Nootka, Moowatch, a bear (Jewitt). A deer; venison. Frequently used to signify a wild animal; as, hull-oina mowitch, a strange or different kind of beast. The meaning given in Jewitt's book is probably a misprint. Like mooocl; an elk, the word is found in the Koquilth of Humboldt Bay.

Muck'-a-muck, n., v. The word has been regarded as an invented one, but is probably Ojibwa, as it is said to be in use at the Sault St. Mary. Food; to eat, to bite. Muckamuck chuck, &c., to drink water or other liquid.

Mus'ket, n. English, idem. A gun or musket. Stick musket, a do you go to-day? Interrogation is, however, often conveyed by intonation only.

Ná-áh. n. Chinook, Tlkaná. A mother. (Hale.) Peculiar to the Columbia, and now in fact obsolete, the English MA'MA being used instead.

Nah, interj. Common to several languages. Look here! I say!
Nah sikhs! halloo, friend! Also used in common conversation to call attention to some point not thoroughly understood. In the Yakama language, it is the sign of the vocative; as, nah tehn! O man.

Nánitsh, v. Quere u. d. To see; look; look for; seek. Nanoitsh! look there! kloshe nanitsh! look out! take care! cultus nan-itsh, to look round idly, or from curiosity only. Mamook nanitsh, to show. The word is neither Chinook nor Chihalis. Dr. Scouler gives nananitch as Nootka and Columbian. It is possibly the former.

Nau'its, adv. Chihalis, Norrsh. Mr. Hale gives this for off shore; on the stream. It means, according to Mr. Anderson, the sea-beach, and is not properly a Jargon word.

Na-wit'ka, adv. Chinook, idem; Klikatat and Yakama, N'witka.
Yes; certainly; yes indeed; to be sure. Nawitka wake nika kumtuks, indeed I don't know. In answer to a negative question, many Indians use it as affirming the negative. Ex. Wake mika nanitsh?
did you not see [it]? Nawitka, I did not.
Nem, n. English, Name. A name. Mamook nem, to name, or call by name.

Ne-nám-ooks, n. Chinook, ENANAMUKS. The land otter.

Ne-si-ka, pron. Chinook, NISÁKA. We; us; our.

Ne'-whah. Chinook, NIWA. It seems to be an adverb used, as is often the case, as a verb, the meaning being kither, come, or bring it kither. Ex. Newhah nika nanitsh, here, let me see it.

Ni'-ka, pron. Chinook, NAIKA. I; me; my; mine.

Nose, n. English, idem. The nose; also, a promontory. Boat nose, the bow of a boat.

O'-koke, or O'-kook, pron. Chinook, Ókok. This; that; it. Iktah okook? what is that? okook sun, to-day; okook klaksta, he who; okook klaska, they (being present). It is often abbreviated to oke; as, oke sun.

Pa'see-sie, n. Chinook, Pâsisî. A blanket; woollen cloth.

Pa-si'-ooks, n. adj. Chinook, PasIsius. French; a Frenchman. Mr. Hale supposed this to be a corruption of the French word Français. It is, however, really derived from the foregoing word, Pâsisî, with the terminal us, which is a plural form applied to living beings. Lewis and Clarke (vol. ii., p. 413) give Pasishisooks, clothmen, as the Chinook name for the whites, and this explanation was also furnished me by people of that tribe. It has since been generally restricted to the French Canadians, though among some of the tribes east of the Cascade Range, it is applied indiscriminately to all the Hudson’s Bay people.

Pchih, or Pit-chih, adj. Quære u. d. Thin in dimension, as of a board. (Shaw.) Not in common use.

Pee, conj. French, Puis. (Anderson.) Then; besides; and; or; but. Pee weight, and also; besides which; pee nika wauwau wake, but I say, No.

Pel’ton, n. adj. Jargon. A fool; foolish; crazy. Kalikwa pelton, like a fool; hyas pelton nika, you are very silly.

The Indians adopted this word from the name of a deranged person, Archibald Pelton, or perhaps Felton, whom Mr. Wilson P. Hunt found on his journey to Astoria, and carried there with him. The circumstance is mentioned by Franchère, in his “Narrative,” trans. p. 149.

Pi-ah, n. adj. English, Fire. Fire; ripe; cooked. Mamook piah, to cook; to burn; piah-ship, a steamer; piah olillie, ripe berries; piah sapolill, baked bread; piah sick, the venereal disease; saghillie piah, lightening.

Fil, adj. Chinook, Tlfepl. Father Pandosy gives Pilpilp, as signifying red, in the Nez Percé or Sahaptin, also. Red; of a reddish color. Pil illahie, red clay or vermilion; pil dolla, gold; pil chickamin, copper; pil kiutan, a bay or chestnut horse.

Fish, n. English. Fish.

Pit-nilh’, or Pit-nilhil’, adj. Quære u. d. Thick in consistence, as molasses.

Piu-piu, n. French, Puer, to stink. Or from the sound often uttered expressive of disgust at a bad smell. A skunk.

Sis'-ki-you, n. Cree. (Anderson.) A bob-tailed horse. This name, ludicrously enough, has been bestowed on the range of mountains separating Oregon and California, and also on a county in the latter State. The origin of this designation, as related to me by Mr. Anderson, was as follows. Mr. Archibald R. McLeod, a chief factor of the Hudson’s Bay Company, in the year 1828, while crossing the mountains with a pack train, was overtaken by a snow storm, in which he lost most of his animals, including a noted bob-tailed race-horse. His Canadian followers, in compliment to their chief, or “bourgeois,” named the place the Pass of the Siskiyou,—an appellation subsequently adopted as the veritable Indian name of the locality, and which thence extended to the whole range, and the adjoining district.

Sit'-kum, n., adj. Chinook, Sitkum (Anderson); Clatsop, Asitko. A half; a part. Sitkum dolla, half a dollar; sitkum sun, noon; tenas sitkum, a quarter, or a small part.
