On Monday, April 13th, 43 teachers from all provinces of Panama began a two-week intensive training course on tropical coastal and marine habitats at STRI's Galeta Point Marine Laboratory. This is the eighth such course by STRI and Panama's Ministry of Education (MEDUCA) with the financial support of the International Community Foundation (ICF), in San Diego, California. STRI director Matt Larsen gave the inaugural words, followed by the head of MEDUCA for the province of Colon.

El Lunes 13 de abril, 43 profesores de todas las provincias de Panamá iniciaron un entrenamiento intensivo de dos semanas sobre los hábitats costeros y marinos tropicales del laboratorio Marino de Punta Galeta del Smithsonian. Este su octavo año, organizado junto al Ministerio de Educación de Panamá (MEDUCA) con el apoyo financiero de la International Community Foundation (ICF), con sede en San Diego, California. El Director del Smithsonian en Panamá, Matt Larsen dio las palabras de bienvenida, seguido por el representante del MEDUCA para la provincia de Colón.
